Happy Fan Cam Friday!

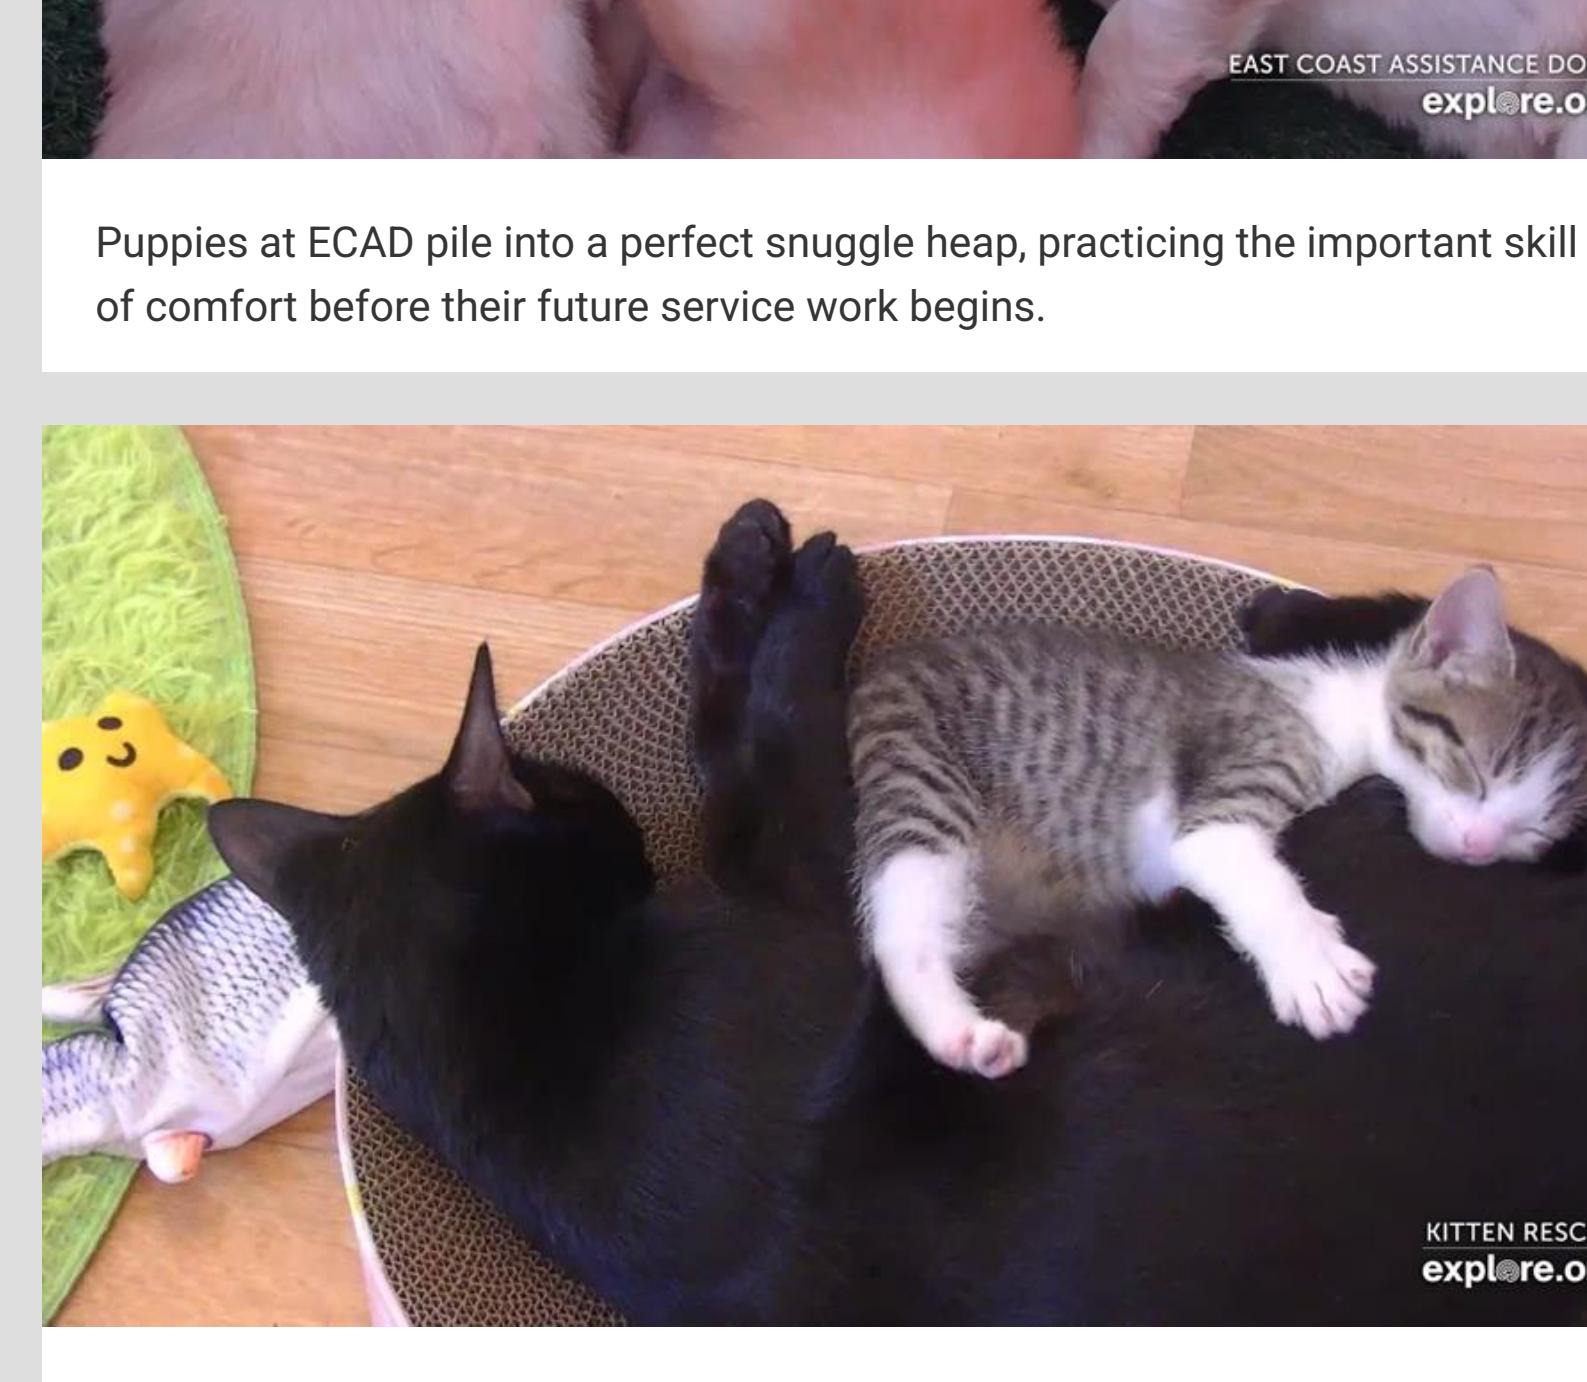

This Valentine's week, love is unfolding across the live cams. From the softest cuddle puddles of puppies and kittens to devoted eagle pairs tending nests together, our animal families are showing that affection comes in many forms.

Whether you're celebrating romance, friendship, or simply the comfort of watching wildlife, there's a warm moment waiting for you live.

If you're the photographer of one of this week's featured Fan Cam Friday photos, email us at feedback@explore.org with your shipping address to claim your Fan Cam Friday prize. Don't forget to include a link to your winning snapshot in your email!

Puppies at ECAD pile into a perfect snuggle heap, practicing the important skill of comfort before their future service work begins.

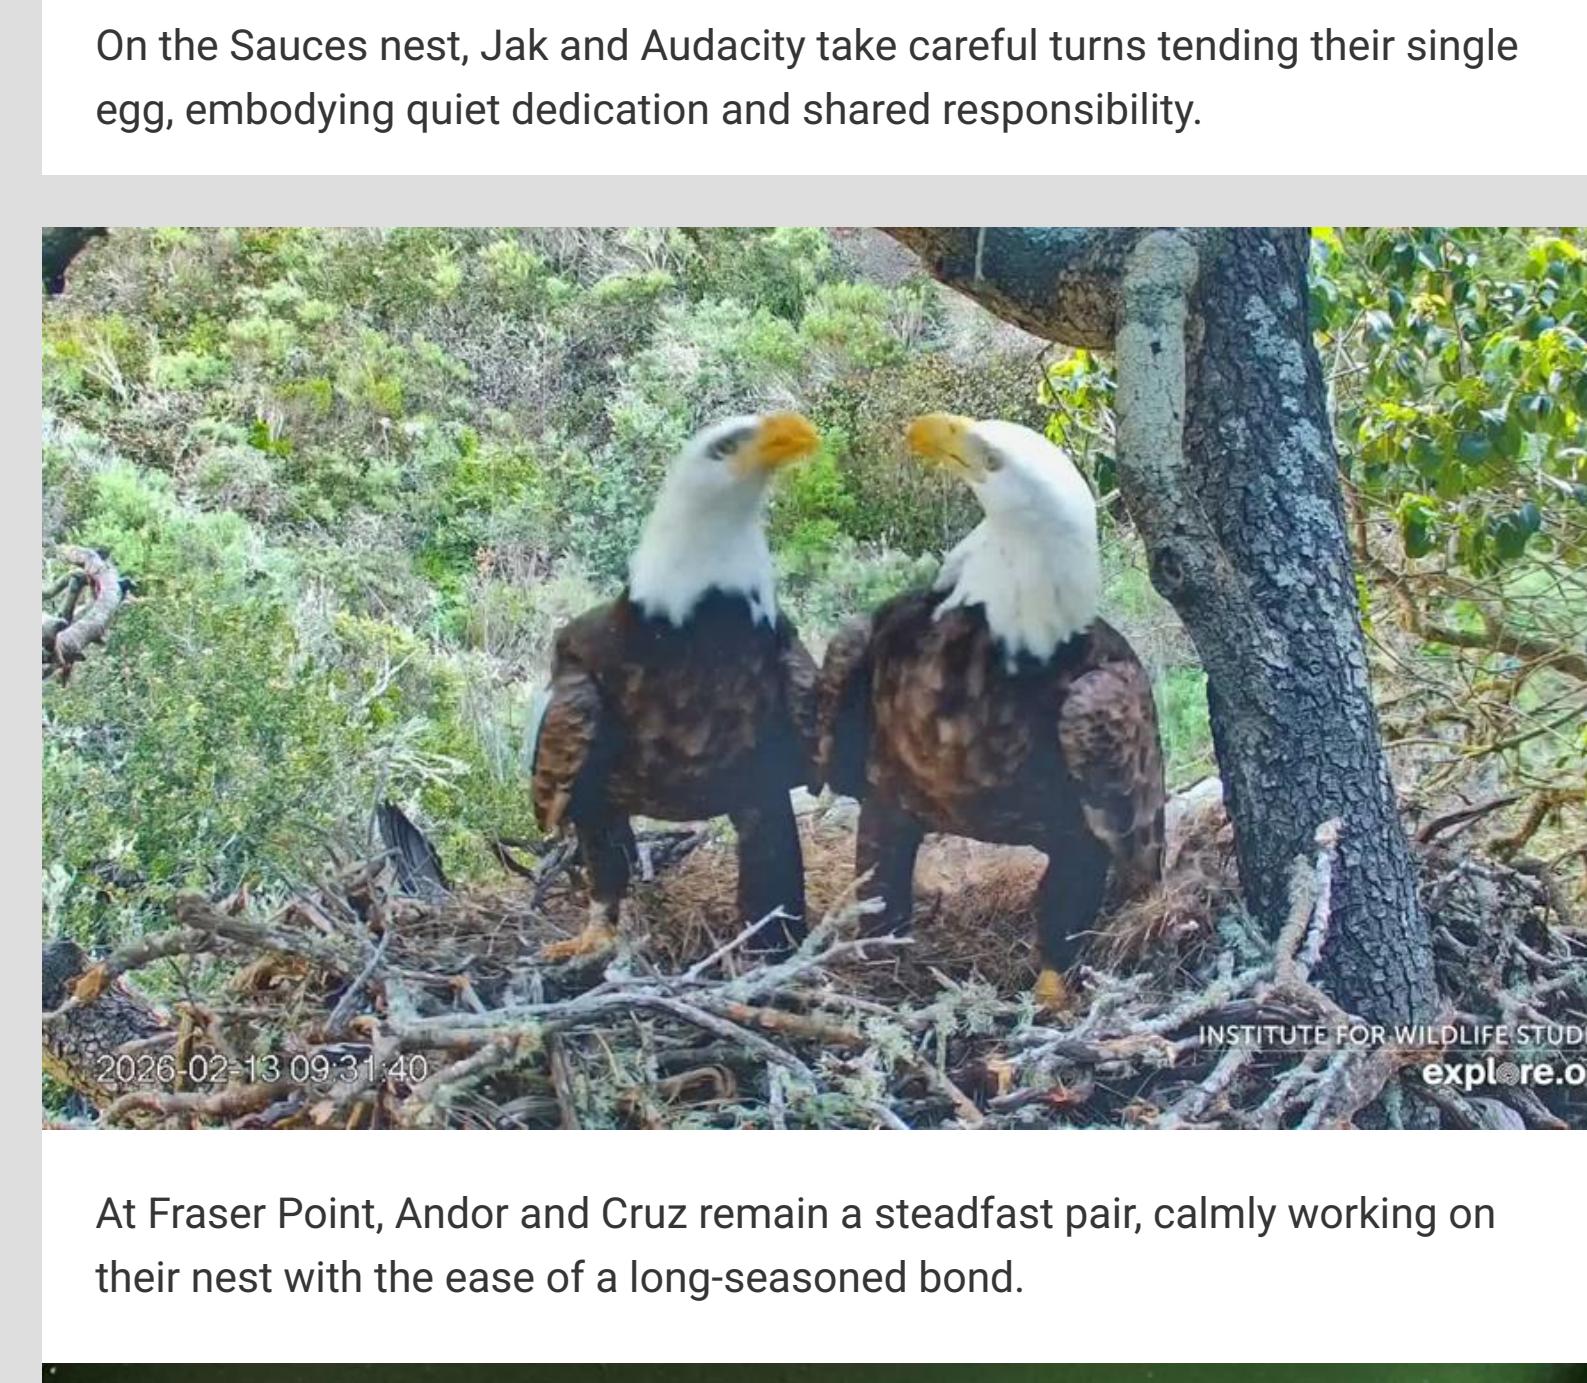

A rescued kitten at Kitten Rescue nestles tightly against mom, a tiny reminder that love is often warm, quiet, and close.

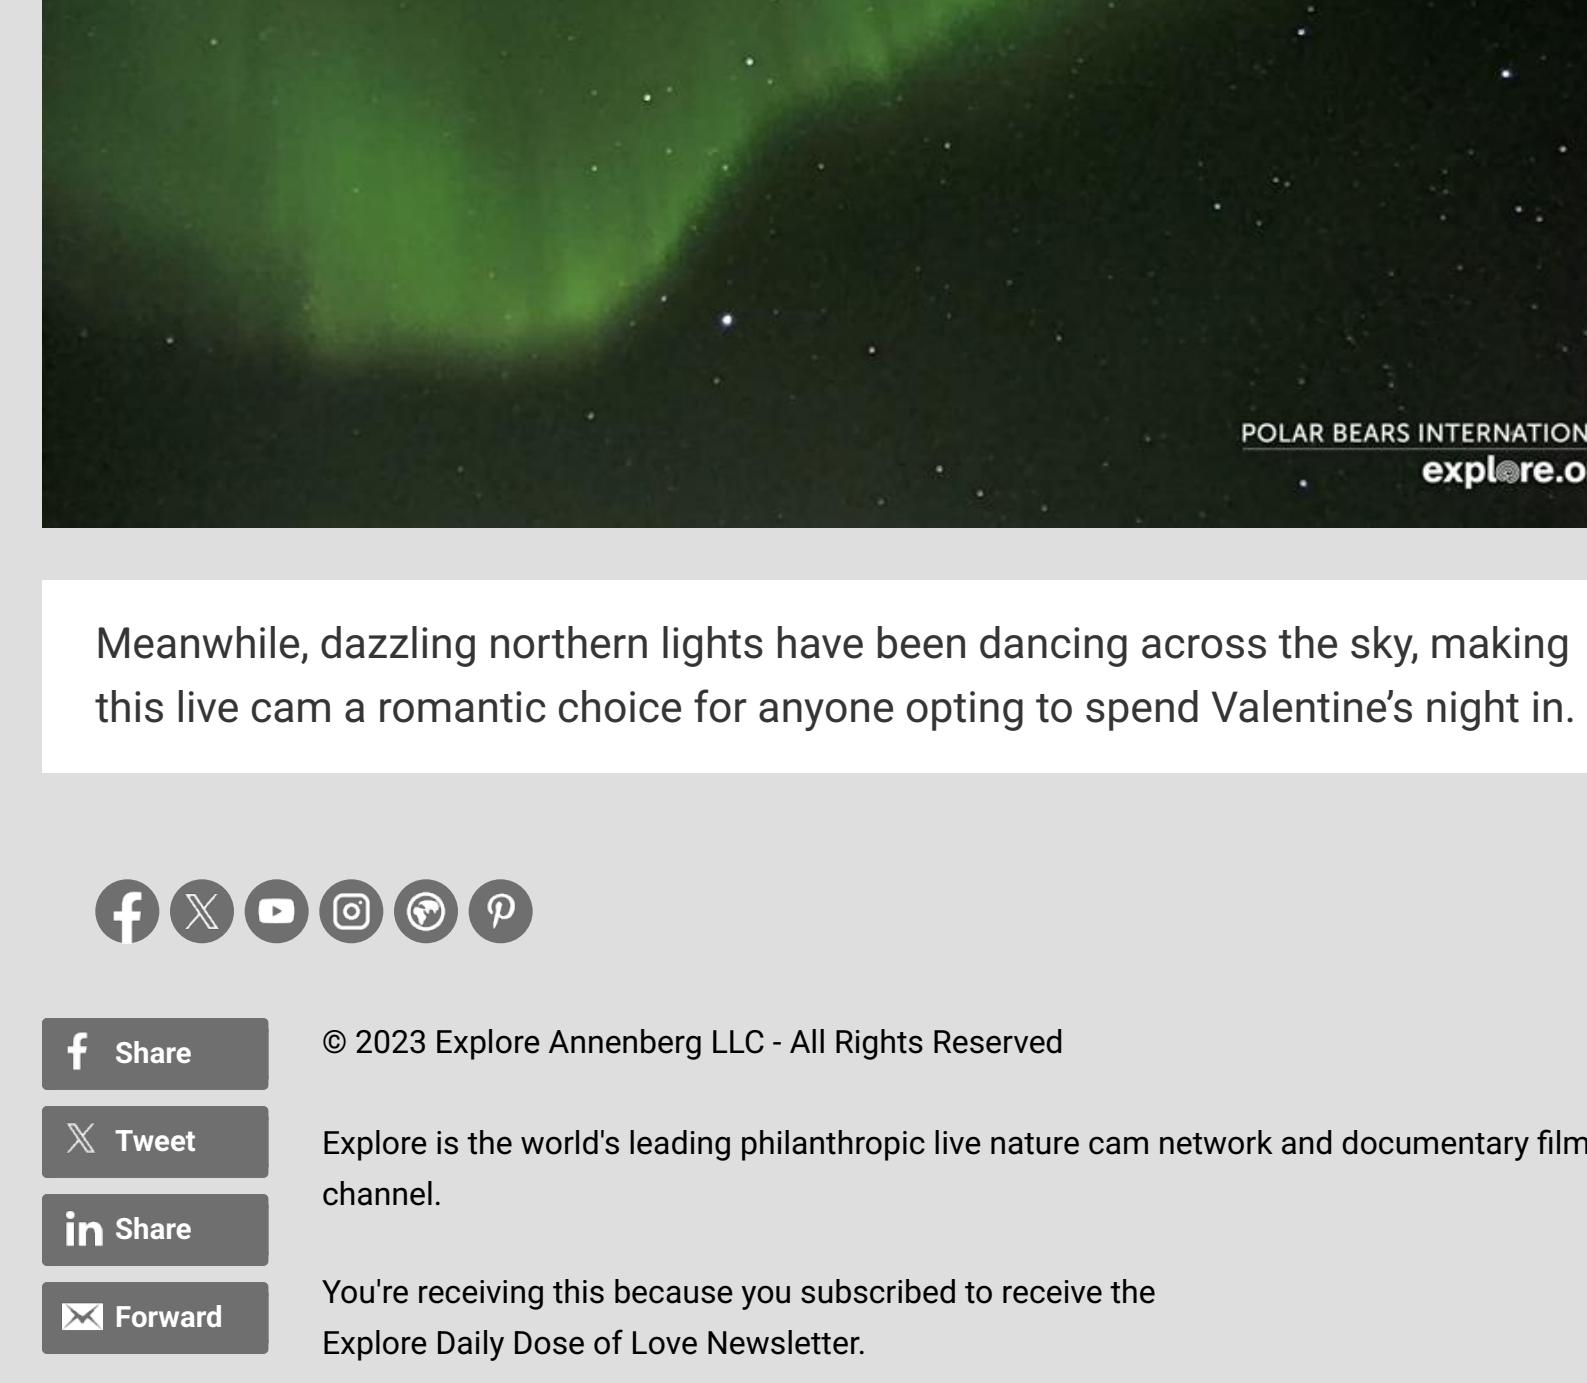

A panda mom lounges peacefully while her cub gets ready to turn rest time into a play session.

At Guide Dogs of America, future guide dog puppies nap in a cuddle puddle.

The big cats at Turpentine Creek Wildlife Refuge doze side-by-side in a tender tiger cuddle.

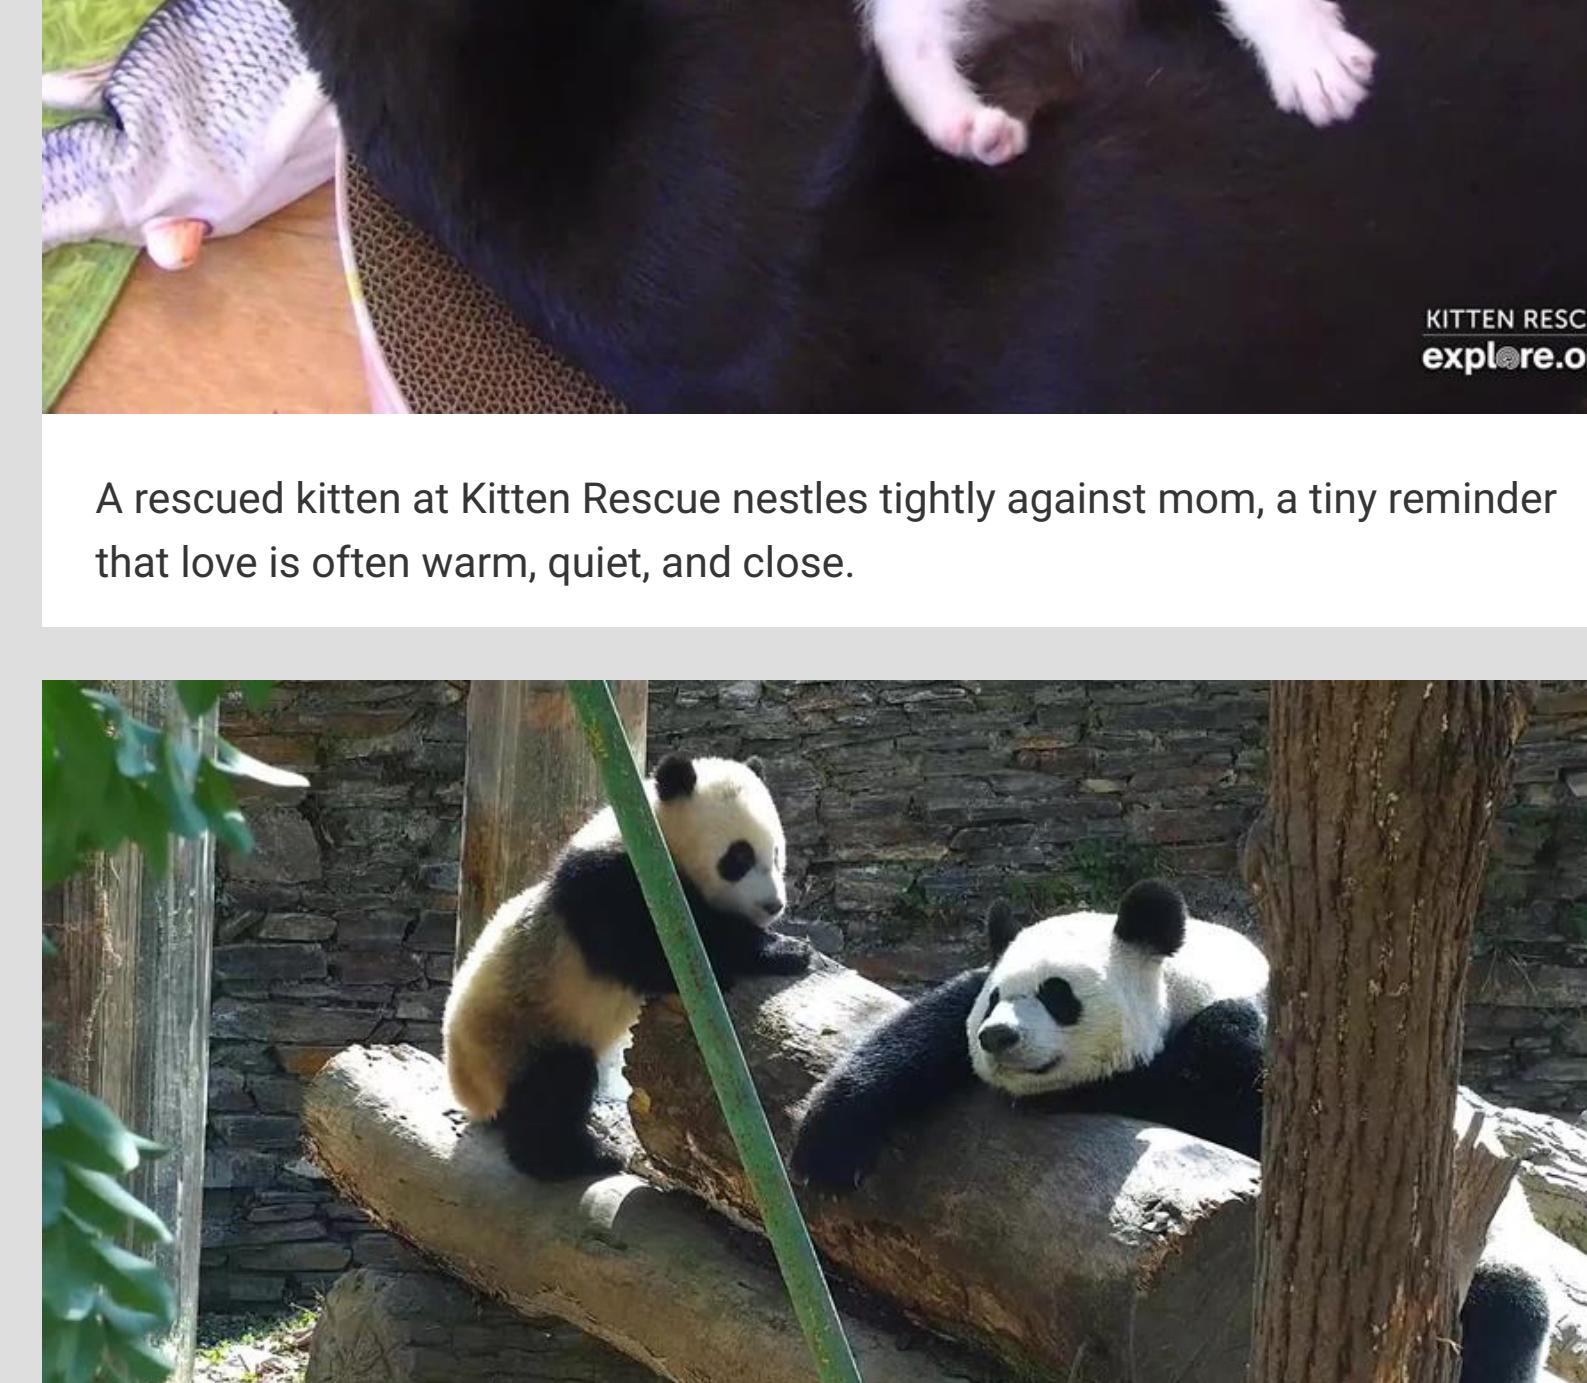

Mr. North and his mate DNF have reunited after a tense week of uncertainty, their return to the nest together offering a hopeful sign of resilience and partnership.

On the Sauces nest, Jak and Audacity take careful turns tending their single egg, embodying quiet dedication and shared responsibility.

Meanwhile, dazzling northern lights have been dancing across the sky, making this live cam a romantic choice for anyone opting to spend Valentine's night in.
